

Owned and shared by Kelly M. McDonald
Website: www.smithandgosling.wordpress.com

Benjamin Count Lecky. Herefordshire

My dear Murray.

I was very happy to receive your Letter in the first place, because it was your Letter - and in the next place because I was afraid you had turned your back upon the Sun, and were travelling to the Land of Cutaneous Disorders, and metaphysical contentions.

I shall be in London on the 21st. in the Evening and will call upon you the next Day after morning Service that is about 2 o'clock unless I find a 23 post Letter from you at any house the preceding evening exhorting me to the contrary. — Dan Jeffrey I have just recd from him one of the most melancholy & unpurpose Letters I ever read. — and shall write to him immediately pressing him to come to Town — I need hardly conceive Braghams report to be accurate: — now I understand Braghams I really like him very much. — but he is not precisely the man to whom Jeffrey would speak of his grief. — because he has other good qualities which are more conspicuous than his sympathy with grief - I remain - Mr & Mrs Jeffrey and upon the very best terms & gather and nothing could exceed his attention to her - his loss is really (measured by his idea of it) a very serious one - it will yield to time of course - but he will suffer a great deal of misery - Mrs L. and my little family will not be in town till the beginning of October - The mile truly happy to see you as shall I. and the more so as I was abusing my ill fortune for misusing you - I remain my Dr. Murray with every sentiment of respect & affection. Yr sincere friend - September 15 1805 - Rodney Ross